a. [REDACTED] also supplied the above information which is forwarded with reservation only because lack of comparable data.

b. Technical railroad data (i.e., the German train-dispatch numbers) are credible. It is doubted, however, that all reported trains were actually run as the report total of boxcars would have carried about 30,000 military personnel. The arrival of a large number of Soviet military personnel from the Soviet Union in August 1949 is known from previous reports. The troops are believed to have been recruits who were inducted in the Soviet Union early in the summer of 1949.
